THE ANALYSED BIBLE

By the REV.

G. CAMPBELL MORGAN, D.D.

Volume 1.—General Review of Genesis to Esther

Volume 2.—General Review of Job to Malachi

Volume 3.—General Review of the New Testament

PRICE 3/6 EACH.

REV. PRINCIPAL W. H. GRIFFITH THOMAS

'Dr. Campbell Morgan's Bible Commentary, "The Analysed Bible," is very welcome. It will be of the greatest help to Bible students by leading them to do what Dr. Campbell Morgan has done to such good purposes . . . read and study the Bible for themselves, and make its contents and teaching their own. Dr. Morgan's large Bible-class at Westminster Chapel is a splendid testimony to what Bible teaching can do, and a fine reminder of the place it should occupy in the ministry and life of the Churches. This volume of first-fruits of his work should be studied by all ministers of the gospel who desire to "do likewise."'

REV. F. B. MEYER

'This work contains the essence of years of study. Much of it has been given to audiences, and is therefore winnowed grain. I have been repeatedly asked for something of this kind, and these volumes will find their way to the shelves of thousands of young men and women, local preachers and ministers. They are models of luminous analysis. Dr. Morgan takes the Bible as it stands. Prolonged and profound thought has compelled the successive books to yield up their secret unifying thought which, in the author's own phrase, vindicates the divinity of the Book. It is hardly necessary to add that Christ is first, last, midst, all in all. I heartily commend these books.'

REV. H. W. WEBB-PEPLOE

'The first volume will certainly be received by a very large number of readers; it displays a keen and striking power of analysis, a simple evangelical grasp of truth and a faithful adhesion (so far as I have had time to take notice of its details) to old-fashioned yet true lines of Scripture exposition. Multitudes are yearning for true light upon God's Word, and Dr. Campbell Morgan would seem to be specially qualified and equipped for giving that teaching which is so needful and so greatly desired in our day.'

REV. GEORGE HANSON, D.D.

'It is a book to place alongside the late Dr. Donald Fraser's lectures on the books of the Bible, and it need not fear the comparison. Reading the book through, moving systematically forward from the beginning to the end, we receive a very vivid impression indeed of the unity of the Old Testament, and discover naturally and convincingly the place that each book fills in the general structure and the development of the purpose running through the whole. One realizes what Dr. Morgan himself, at a critical period in his life, came to feel as he writes in the "Introduction": "It was out of a deep sense of perplexity that I turned from books about the Bible to the Bible itself. The result in my own experience has been a discovery of unity which to me is the final proof of divinity." The impression made on the author's own mind by his study of the Bible is the impression that he succeeds in communicating to his readers. For such service to the truth we cannot thank him sufficiently.'

SEVENTH IMPRESSION

THE GOSPEL IN THE GOSPELS

Crown 8vo, 5s. net.

“The Gospel in the Gospels” has made a sensation in the religious world. The author, while gratefully accepting the light thrown upon the New Testament by modern criticism, remains completely orthodox. . . . The strong point of Mr. Du BOSE's book is, to the mind of the present writer, that it offers a logical position to metaphysically-minded persons who are already emotionally and spiritually convinced. It is an effort to confirm the Churches.’—SPECTATOR.

‘This book is the work of a born theologian, who has shaken off all scholastic trammels and looks on things as they are. It will delight the lay reader and lend fresh zest and fuller insight to the study of theology.’—BRITISH WEEKLY.

THE QUEST OF THE INFINITE

By BENJAMIN A. MILLARD. Handsome cloth, crown 8vo. 3/6 post free.

The Methodist Recorder.—'Mr. MILLARD's powerful re-statement of an old argument will be of special service to those who are troubled by the inconsistent sneers of some scientists, who profess to be greatly astonished that Faith can rest on one set of facts to-day, and, when new facts are brought to light, can shift on to new ground without tottering to a fall. "The new form which Faith takes on is generally a wider and more affirmative statement of the essential idea embodied in the old form. There is an underlying spiritual unity which links the new with the old." This is well said, and the statement is admirably expounded.'

The Academy.—'The author of this eloquent and suggestive little book shares the conviction of the wisest in all ages, that man, "the cause-seeking" creature, is still more radically the worshipping creature. . . . He is concerned, not with the philosophic, but with the practical question. His answer is the answer of a thousand tracts and sermons; but whereas these touch us not at all, save possibly to disgust, Mr. Millard's presentation impresses and even enthralles us.'

The Times.—'An attempt to state what Mr. Millard calls "the new Apologetic"—that the ground of Christian Faith is to be found, not in authority, in ecclesiastical dicta, or in the arguments of the theologian or the philosopher, but in individual experience. He expounds this position with much clearness and ability.'

LITERARY MEN AND THEIR FAVOURITE JOURNAL.

THAT

PUBLIC OPINION

Edited by PERCY L. PARKER

is a Journal with A REPUTATION THAT COUNTS is evidenced by the following opinions of eminent literary men.

The Earl of Rosebery, K.G.

'I can truly say that Public Opinion is a weekly joy to me. It gives me just what I want to read.'

Rev. Dr. W. Robertson Nicoll, M.A.

'Public Opinion was very much prized by Thomas Carlyle, and was one of the last journals he read,' said Dr. W. R. Nicoll, in British Weekly, May 2, 1907.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Fitchett

'I get your Public Opinion regularly, and find it most interesting and valuable—a matchless bit of journalistic work. . . . Nothing else I know gives such a reflex of the thought in the current history of the world.'

Sir Gilbert Parker, M.P.

'I cannot but congratulate you on that excellent paper, Public Opinion, which I read regularly. You have a journal of great influence and usefulness.'

Mr. Benjamin Kidd

'I take Public Opinion every week, and find it one of the principal means of continuing my education that the world provides.'

TWOPENCE WEEKLY NOT SIXPENCE

Why you should read
'Public Opinion.'

Because

Every week lengthy and informing summaries of two of the most important books are given, so that in the course of a year the reader is put in possession, by direct quotation, of the main features of over ONE HUNDRED BOOKS. In fact, the information contained in this paper could not be obtained in any other way WITHOUT THE EXPENDITURE OF MANY POUNDS. It is obviously, therefore, a paper for the book lover.

It provides a weekly review of current thought and activity as they are expressed in the world's newspapers, magazines and books, and to put on record the ideas and activities which make for Religious, Intellectual, Political and Social Progress.

It is the busy man's paper—the paper for the man or woman who, though busy, is intelligent, and wants to know what is going on in the world.

'Public Opinion' provides a lucid summary of what is happening. Everyone who is interested in the Questions of the Day will find the paper invaluable, for in it will be found a wealth of matter which could not be obtained elsewhere. An index is given each six months, and so its information is easily found. It is the very best paper for filing for reference.

The following form filled up and enclosed in an envelope bearing a halfpenny stamp and addressed to Public Opinion, 31 and 32 Temple House, Tallin Street, London, E.C., will ensure the receipt of a specimen copy of this journal.
